On a family trip to the seaside, Fizza and Ahmed went snorkeling and marveled at the vibrant coral reefs. However, they noticed some areas looked bleached and lifeless

They learned from a marine biologist that pollution and rising ocean temperatures harm corals.

Determined to help, they started a "Save the Reef" campaign at school, teaching classmates how their actions on land affect the ocean

They encouraged everyone to reduce plastic use and properly dispose of waste. Soon, their school held a fundraiser to support coral restoration efforts
